Letter from the President

Dear Members,

Our year has come and gone, and it seems that we just began our planning meeting. I want to thank our speaker, James Hanlon Jr. of JC Hanlon Consulting Inc. Our April meeting was a grand success this year as has been our entire year. I want to take this opportunity to personally say that it has been my pleasure to be a part of such a superb year and such a first-rate leadership group.

I want to thank each of our committees as well for their hard work this year. They have each contributed a great deal toward the professional growth of the chapter and supporting you as members in the profession. Please join me in thanking each of the board members and their efforts. Each of them are listed on the newsletter, and they attend our meetings regularly. Please seek them out and talk with them as they take seriously our chapter’s slogan to support your professional growth.

I am honored to have served this year as your President. If you have more thoughts, ideas for us, please contact me at PattiJimCole@aol.com or any of the board members. I wish to round out our year with the board with your input, and enhance your membership with ISACA as Membership Chair.

I wish everyone a safe and healthy summer, and we’ll see you in the fall with another great program.

Patti Earl-Cole, CISA, CIA
President
Detroit Chapter ISACA

Shown above is Jim Hanlon, President & CEO, JC Hanlon Consulting, Inc. who was the April pre-dinner and after-dinner speaker.

Have a safe and happy summer and be prepared to come back in September for an exciting and educational 2006 – 2007 chapter year.

PRE-DINNER INFORMATION

“Heroes and Weasels:
Professional Ethics in a Post Sarbanes-Oxley World”
John L. Daly
MBA, CPA, CMA, CPIM
President, Executive Education, Inc.

John L. Daly is a Chelsea, Michigan based management consultant specializing in pricing strategy, strategic planning and business turnarounds. He has taught continuing professional education seminars since 1995. Earlier in his career, Mr. Daly spent fifteen years as a Chief Financial Officer including ten years with a medium-sized Tier 1 automotive parts supplier. He also has been CFO for a large restaurant chain and COO for a manufacturer of window treatments. Mr. Daly is the author of Pricing for Profitability published by John C. Wiley & Sons, New York.

American businesses have been living with the Sarbanes-Oxley Act for four years now and the Whistleblower Protection Act for twenty. Despite this legislation we would be hard-pressed to say that the public should trust American businesses any more than they did five years ago. As professional organizations revised their codes of ethics in response to the “Accounting Crisis of 2002,” the motivation distinctly seems to be to “protect their posteriors” rather than increase the protection provided to the public. Come hear John Daly “tell it like it is” in a post Sarbanes-Oxley World.
